Tornado in Dallas Kills 9

At Least 800 Injured; Other Twisters In Two-State Area Boost Deaths to 15

DALLAS, Tex. (UP) — A killer tornado whirled slowly across 16 miles of Dallas late Tuesday, crushing an estimated 800 homes, killing 9 persons and injuring upwards of 800 others.

A 10th person was killed in Texas 100 miles northeast of Dallas and black tornado funnels swept on into Oklahoma, killing at least 5 others in that state and injuring 14 more, bringing the two-state toll to 15 dead.

At least 170 persons, many of them in critical condition, were injured enough to require hospital treatment in Dallas. The Texas Department of Public Safety estimated that 600 others were hurt, but not enough to go to hospitals.

Boxcars full of bricks were blown from railroad tracks. Automobiles were blown over houses. Fire Marshal Guy Harbert said one automobile was blown over a house and it "worked fine, even to its radio," after the tornado passed.

Salvation Army Capt. Walter C. Wolfe said it would be at least Friday before the disaster area could be cleared out to tell if there are any more casualties.

The tornado hit at about 4:40 p. m. CST.

Children Among Victims

"It was quite dark when the tornado hit," Wolfe said. "Only a couple hours of daylight were left."

Permit Outboard Motors on Lake; Tie Vote on Parking Lot Meters

The city council yesterday voted to permit outboard motors on Lake Harrisburg. The allowed horsepower will be five or less.

The action was taken in a motion by Don Williams to amend the ordinance prohibiting outboard motors on the lake. City Attorney George B. Lee will prepare the amendment.

The vote on the outboard motors was unanimous but a motion made by Williams to change the parking lot meters to give motorists eight hours of parking for a quarter instead of 40 cents ended in a two to two tie vote with Commissioner Sneed Jordan being absent because of the serious illness of his brother.

Another action of the council was to open the only sealed bid received for materials for the city's oil and chips program, used so successfully last summer on unimproved streets with money received from the half cent city sales tax.

To Act on Bid
The bid, by Franklin Asphalt, called for 40,000 gallons of road oil at 14.6 cents a gallon, 1,000 gallons of liquid asphalt at 18.19 cents per gallon and 3.8-inch aggregate spread in the amount of 2,000 tons at $4.25 per ton, all delivered to the site.

The bid will be acted on at the next meeting.

The parking lot meter situation came up when Chief of Police Ross Lane said that only $68.30 was collected in the first five weeks of operation. He also said that water had seeped into the meters.

He said he thought the fee should be 25 cents for eight hours of parking instead of 40, as an incentive should be given for people to use the lots instead of the meters on the streets.

"They won't go to the lot for the same price as the meters on the streets," he stated.
Mayor Gibbons said the only objection he had heard to the parking lots was from women who had to walk over the heavy rock on the lot. The lot will be blacktopped this summer.

Vote To Light Up Lot
Williams then made his motion

Ike Denounces Reports He Plans to Retire

President Says He Intends to Serve Full Term

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower today denounced as rot reports that he is preparing to step out of office and turn the reins of government over to Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Mr. Eisenhower was asked at a crowded news conference about reports that he was preparing to quit the presidency when world conditions permit.

He replied that there is no reason for anyone to doubt his basic integrity and honesty, and that he intends to serve out his elected term of office.

Other highlights of the news conference:

—He expressed hope that a tax reduction would be possible before he leaves office in 1961. But he declined to estimate whether such a reduction would be possible next year.

Defends Foreign Aid
—He said that from the American standpoint the Communists are not keeping the Korean armistice in accordance with its original terms.

—He denied a report that Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, had recommended a United Nations buildup in South Korea with the addition of jet aircraft.

—He said it is possible to achieve some savings in foreign aid. But he said the administration still regards the $4.4 billion foreign aid request in the budget as the best estimate of a minimum program if the United States is to achieve its objectives in the free world.

—He said in response to a question that it would be possible to cut federal personnel a great deal without the operation of the government suffering unduly. But he said he has no specific plan.

—The President, as a result of publicity on his fast automobile ride to Gettysburg, Pa. last Friday has issued orders to his White House drivers never again to exceed the speed limit.

Gallatin Board In Full Control Of Democrats

Democrats swept the five township supervisor elections in Gallatin county Tuesday and now hold all ten positions on the County Board of Supervisors.

The closest race of the day was in Equality township where Ed Hine won over Jewell Sisk by a 4-vote margin, 314 to 310.

Holdover members of the board: Pete Clayton, Shawnee township; Orval Allen, New Haven township; Gene Duffy, Ridgway township; Eddie McGuire, Asburg township; Ralph Colbert, Eagle Creek township.

White County Chairman Loses By Single Vote

CARMI, Ill. — Early returns show one big upset as a result of the Illinois township elections Tuesday with the defeat of the chairman of the White County Board of Supervisors, Democrat Walter C. Miller, of Enfield, by Bill Wise Jr., 370 to 369.

The one-vote difference caused a recount to be called for in Enfield township.

To balance this Republican victory, Democrat Paul Ward unseated Republican Harry Garrison in Carmi, 1,420 to 865, to leave the probable make-up of the new board the same as its predecessor with six Democrats and five Republicans.

DEMOCRAT incumbent C. C. Morris of Herald Prairie won without opposition, and Democrat incumbent Henry Davis of Gray was victorious over Ted Bradshaw, 486 to 237.

In Emma township incumbent Republican Clarence Holtzclaw defeated W. M. Simmons, 410 to 135.

The new White County board will evidently consist of holdover Democrats F. F. Welch, Indian Creek; Charles Schneider, Carmi and C. A. Boultinghouse, Phillips. To this will be added victorious incumbents Morris and Davis and one new Democrat, Ward.

HOLDOVER Republicans are Willard Newby, Mill Shoals; Bayless Hargrave, Burnt Prairie, and Byrd L. Patrick, Hawthorne. To this is added victorious incumbent Holtzclaw and new Republican supervisor, Wise.

Majority Cut To 12-10 by Vote Results

Democrats Pick Up Two Assistant Posts In Harrisburg Voting

The Republican party retained control of the Saline County Board of Supervisors according to the complete unofficial returns of yesterday's township elections. Republicans elected eight supervisors, Democrats four.

During the past two years the GOP board majority was 14 to 8 but the edge was cut to 12-10 by virtue of the Democratic party winning two of the Harrisburg township assistant supervisor posts.

Until yesterday's election there were six Republicans and no Democrats from Harrisburg township on the board and when the supervisors organize later this month there will be four Republicans and two Democrats.

In the other five townships where supervisor elections came up yesterday, there was no change in the party affiliation. The townships were Carrier Mills, Brushy, Long Branch, Galatia and Rector.

Elected to Board

Elected to the board in Harrisburg township were Virgil Ferrell R., supervisor, and Ewell Winkelman, Charles Skaggs and James Land, Republicans, and Grover Dale Fulkerson and Dr. John Slightom, Democrats, assistant supervisors.

At Carrier Mills, Raymond E. Field and Charles Pritchett, both Republican incumbents, were elected supervisor and assistant supervisor, respectively, over Earl Hancock and Weaver McNew. The vote was Field's 720 to Hancock's 489 and Pritchett's 593 to 470 for McNew.

One of the most spirited battles for supervisor was at Galatia where William Alfred (Pete) Smith, one of the veterans on the board, retained his seat by beating his Democratic opponent, Ralph Campbell, 373 to 310.

Another close battle was in Long Branch township, where Kenneth Jackson, Republican incumbent, defeated William Anthony, a former board member, 104 to 98.

Brushy, too, had a close race, with James B. Gogue, Democrat, defeating Robbie Hankins for the post, 238 to 217. Gogue will succeed Waldo Abney, Democrat, who did not run after having served two terms.

Other winner for supervisor was Lee Porter, incumbent, who was elected without opposition on the Democratic ticket in Rector township.

Holdover Members
Holdovers on the county board are six Democrats and four Republicans as follows:

Heavy Rainfall Keeps Pumps Active at City's Reservoirs

Continuing rainfall has kept the creeks moving this week and more water is being pumped into the reservoirs north of the city.

Pumping with all three units started Monday morning and continued until 11 p. m. yesterday, when the big unit was turned off until this morning.

However, rainfall today had all pumps going full blast again. Harrison Kibler reported that rain early today—up to 7 a. m.—measured 85 inch. The precipitation at Galatia was .72 inch for the same period.

If all pumps can be kept in operation for 40 hours both standby reservoirs will be filled to capacity. Water Supt. Amos Doom stated today. Doom said Lake Harrisburg is filled and water has been running over the spillway several hours.

Congressional Watchdogs

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

Congressional investigations, in theory, are supposed to provide a basis for intelligent lawmaking. They often do not. But even without that end result they may serve usefully as a kind of watchdog check on various phases of American life.

In this latter aspect there is danger of abuse. Some legislators seem to investigate for investigation's sake, figuring there is ammunition to be gained for the next election, or notoriety achieved which can advance political fortunes.

The current Senate inquiry into racketeering in labor and industry may possibly lead to some healthy housecleaning by labor itself and at the same time produce new federal legislation.

New laws are mostly in the talk stage now, with not too many well-defined projects shaping up so far. One that is clear, however, is a proposal to compel union officials who manage union pension and welfare funds to make full and regular disclosure of fund finances.

Labor fought hard to win the allowances that make these funds possible. They were hailed as milestones in the improvement of the average organized worker's lot. It would seem automatic that such monies should be guarded scrupulously.

Yet this has evidently not always been the case. Reports of irregularities in the handling of pension and welfare funds are not uncommon. And, as Secretary of Labor James Mitchell says, they represent a "great temptation" to racketeers.

He estimates that these sums now amount to more than 26 billion dollars, a huge reservoir indeed. To protect the millions of ordinary workers who are the beneficiaries of this rainy-day money, Mitchell favors the proposed law demanding financial declarations.

It is hard to quarrel with the purposes of this measure. Responsible unions and honest union officials can have no fear of it. They cannot fairly brand it labor-busting legislation, since its aim is to aid the union rank and file.

The money is steadily set aside to ease the suffering and the old age of workmen. There can be no excuse for shuffling it around behind closed doors, with no fair accounting. Big sums mean big responsibility, wisely borne. And 26 billion dollars is a lot of money.

A Future Without False Teeth Is Seen

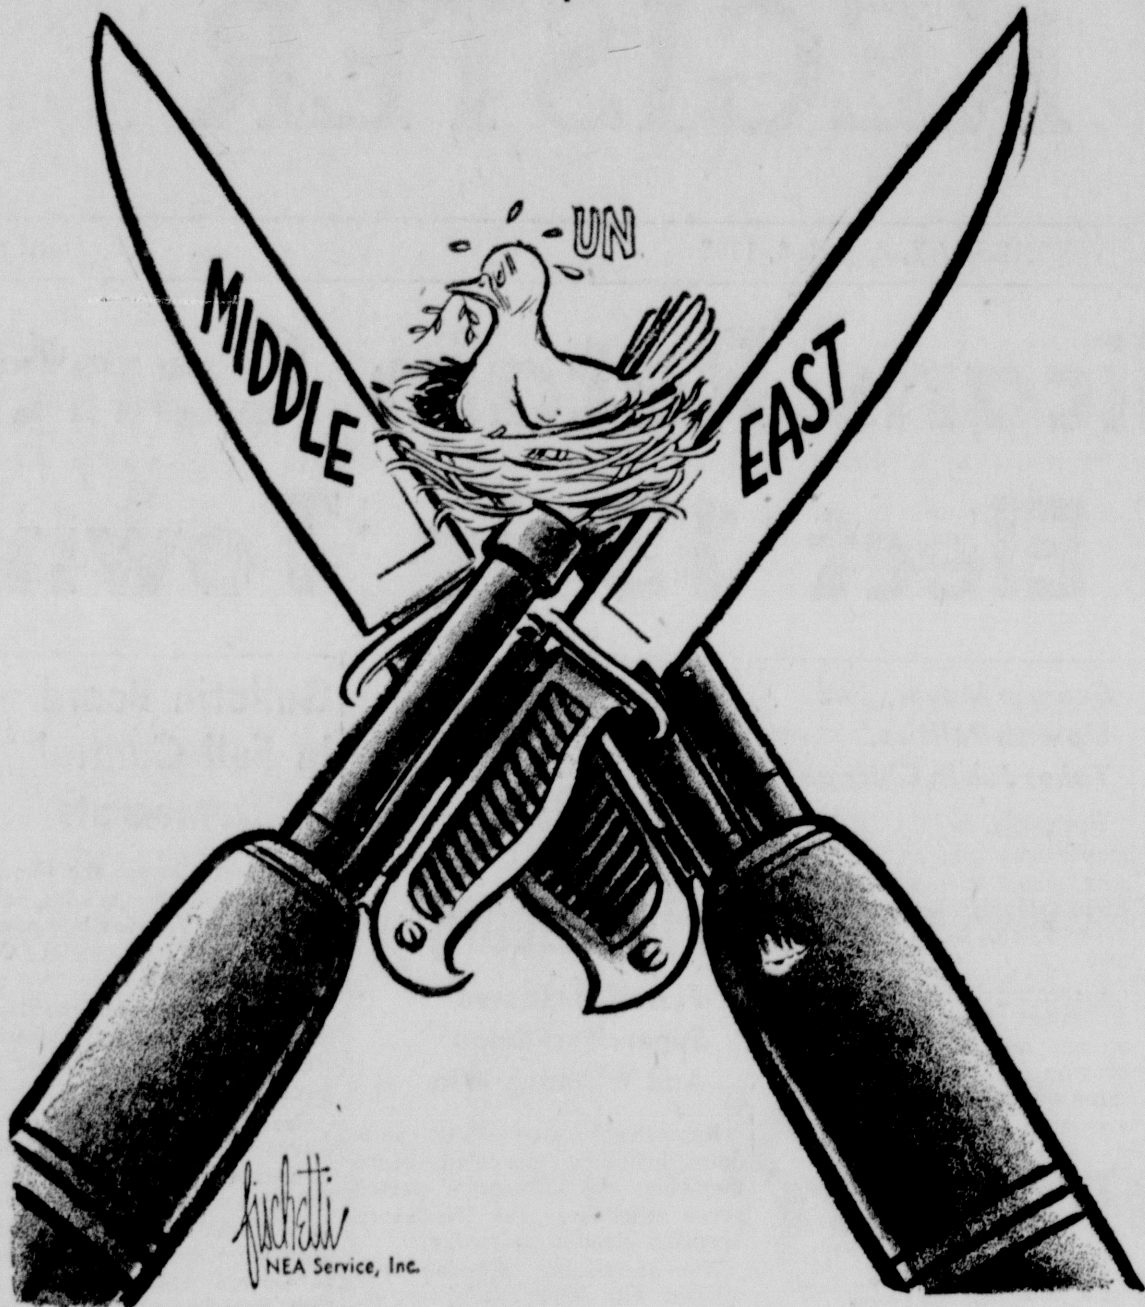

LANSING, Mich. — The need for false teeth will fade away in coming generations, Michigan's department of health predicts.

Dr. Fred Wertheimer, chief of the department's dentistry section, said water fluoridation is opening the way for teeth that last a lifetime.

"While no toothpaste currently used has proved effective against decay, research underway now holds promise that we may even get a toothpaste someday which will add to fluoridation and the work of dentists in preventing cavities and the early loss of teeth," he said.

"While dentists at first were mostly repairmen trying to fix damage done by tooth decay, prevention of tooth decay has come of age. And someday we may even deprive the comic of his ill-conceived jokes about clacking dental plates."

A Home Away From Home

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Sam Rayburn Tells Ike Not To Abdicate; Congressional Leaders Don't Want Nixon As Acting President; They "Throw The Constitution" At Ike.

WASHINGTON.—President Eisenhower's sudden summons of congressional leaders to discuss plans for a substitute President in case of presidential disability came as a surprise to most of the country. It did not come as a surprise to many inside the administration.

They have been concerned for some time over the nervousness of the President, his persistent, hacking cough, his tendency not to concentrate for any length of time on difficult problems, and his habit of dressing down his assistants as if they were buck privates. He has a continuing desire to get away from Washington, did not to return from Thomasville, Ga., to launch the Mid-East Doctrine, and will now leave shortly for Augusta, Ga.

Meanwhile, there are difficult decisions which, under the American system of government, only the President can make.

As a result, friends of the President have been discussing a bill which would permit the President to become a sort of president emeritus, go into semi-retirement, with full duties of decision taken over by Vice President Nixon.

This is an extremely touchy subject, because it bears out some of the statements made, and denied, about the President's health during the election campaign. Because of this, and because the plan was likely to arouse opposition in Congress, it was finally discarded. Instead, it was suggested that a constitutional amendment be passed whereby either the President could declare himself unfit, or the cabinet could rule him unfit. The vice president would then take over.

"DON'T ABDICATE"

Summoned to the White House, congressional leaders took the precaution to study the constitution in advance. Speaker Sam Rayburn read it at breakfast before he went to the White House. Congressman Mammie Celler of Brooklyn took a copy to the White House and held it in his lap during the closed door session with Ike.

In the end, they "threw the book"—the Constitution—at the President.

Eisenhower opened the meeting in serious but friendly vein.

"I have asked you gentlemen down here on a matter of deep concern to me," he said, "something to which I have been giving a great deal of thought."

After explaining further his plan for relieving the President in case of disability, Eisenhower said: "I am not a lawyer and do not know much about these things, but I would like you to listen to Attorney Brownell."

Brownell then read the proposed constitutional amendment, together with a letter which Ike proposed sending to Congress asking for its passage.

The reaction of congressional leaders was immediate.

"Mr. President," snapped Speaker Sam Rayburn who has had more congressional experience than any other man in America, "if you send that letter, the American people will never understand it. They elected you, not Nixon. They elected you by one of the greatest majorities in history. They do not expect you to abdicate."

The President had said that this would not apply to him because a constitutional amendment could not be passed before he was out of office. But congressional leaders did not appear to believe this.

DUTY OF CONGRESS

Strongest opposition, in addition to Rayburn's, came from Senator Knowland, the Republican leader, Rep. John McCormack of Boston, the Democratic leader, and Rep. Celler.

Celler read from Article II, Section I of the Constitution, which, he said, gives Congress the right to rule on the conditions of removing the President and the right to select a successor, either until an election is held or the disability of the President is removed.

"There it is in black and white," said Celler. "What's wrong with it? Why change it?"

"We are talking as if this was a new idea," replied Eisenhower, beginning to get nettled at the chilly response. "It has come up before on several occasions."

He then recalled that after President Garfield was shot and lay near death for several months we were without a President and many people thought that Chester Arthur should have assumed office.

"The same thing came up during Woodrow Wilson's term," agreed Celler. "Wilson was ill and there was a move to replace him, though the situation was aggravated by Wilson's support of the League of Nations. The cabinet knew his true condition at the time, but it was withheld from the public. The cabinet couldn't be trusted."

"The trouble with your proposal is that the cabinet would have to certify the President's disability and the cabinet is under fealty to the President."

"I have studied this for many years," said the New York congressman. "I have made it my business to find out what the leading authorities think. Within the past two years I have conducted a survey among the law deans of fifty leading universities.

"Their opinion was that Congress has the power to deal with this situation without a constitutional amendment. Only one professor out of fifty disagreed."

"I hope the whole question will be explored," suggested Rep. McCormack. "I am sure, Mr. President, that we must keep in mind that the founding fathers wisely considered the possibility of dictatorship by unelected officials in government. There is no danger of it in our day, but we must certainly exercise the same foresight of the founding fathers."

The President finally suggested that if they didn't like his ideas, maybe a presidential disability commission should be appointed to explore the entire question. Senator Knowland, who took an extremely dim view of the original proposal, seemed to like this idea.

Complete Plans To Vacate Road West of Airport

At a meeting of members of the Harrisburg-Raleigh Airport Authority and other interested persons Tuesday night plans were completed to vacate a north-south road immediately west of the airport property.

The airport authority has an option to purchase a 31-acre tract of land that was separated from the airport proper by the roadway.

Meeting with the airport authority Tuesday evening was the Raleigh township highway commissioner and approximately twenty-five persons that might be effected by the vacating of the road.

Plans satisfactory to all concerned were made and the road will be vacated soon.

When the 31-acre tract is purchased the airport authority will own approximately 230 acres.

Money has been allotted for runway extension and another 6-unit hangar building is to be constructed. This will increase the hangar space to 18 units, plus space available in the large hangar. At present all space is being used and the additional hangar units were necessary to meet the need as activity at the local area airport increases.

Wisconsin Voters Approve 'Fast' Time

MILWAUKEE — Wisconsin goes on daylight saving time beginning this year.

The clocks will move ahead one hour each year from the last Sunday of April to the last Sunday of September. This year it's April 28 to Sept. 30.

A turnout of one million voters approved the "fast time" plan overwhelmingly in Tuesday's spring election, climaxing a battle of nearly 40 years. It was a record or near-record vote for an odd-year spring election.

Seeks Oil, Coal, Gas Rights Under Property Of Former Husband

Ione Beasley seeks oil, coal and gas rights under her property from her former husband in an action in chancery on file in circuit court.

The complaint was filed for her by Atty. Harry J. Flanders of Eldorado and Atty. Charles D. Winters of Marion and names Robert E. Beasley the defendant.

It says the two were divorced in 1951 and the defendant gave her a quit claim deed to property in Eldorado in the settlement.

It contends the deed was copied erroneously to exclude coal, oil and gas and other minerals and that she did not notice this until 1955. It says Beasley has refused to convey these rights to her and asks the court to convey to the plaintiff all the interest in the rights.

Seek Clues to Missing Fortune In Marcus Slaying

CHICAGO — Investigators today sought clues to the whereabouts of a mysterious woman and a missing fortune in the life of slain banker Leon Marcus.

Police disclosed that platinum blonde and diamond-studded Ruth Weidner, known by some as Ruth Marcus, apparently has returned to Chicago after a hasty flight from Phoenix, Ariz., following Marcus' fatal "gang ride" here Sunday night.

Acting Chief of Detectives William Touhy said Phoenix authorities told him that a Ruth Weidner lived in a Phoenix apartment listed as owned by a "Mr. and Mrs. Leon Marcus."

Touhy said he was informed that a woman identified as Ruth Weidner, of the same address, left Phoenix Monday night with a 5-year-old boy, presumed to be her son, for Chicago.

Investigators said the missing fortune may be traced to part of the $2.5-million ex-State Auditor Orville E. Hodge pirated from the state treasury before he was caught and sent to prison.

Senate Passes Korean Bonus Plan; Approves Scandal Reform Bill

SPRINGFIELD — The Senate today voted overwhelmingly approval of a 75-million-dollar Korean War veterans bonus plan to be financed with a 1-cent increase in the state cigarette tax.

The Senate also passed, 51-0, and sent to the House a Hodge scandal reform bill to arm the governor with power to investigate the management and finances of any state agency, including the offices of other elected officials.

Sen. Egbert B. Goen (R-Pekin) said Gov. William G. Stratton had found himself "extremely handicapped" by lack of such power in investigating the Hodge scandal last year.

The bill also would give the governor subpoena power to conduct the investigations.

Sen. Paul W. Broyles (R-Mount Vernon), sponsor of the bonus plan, said it would be a "token of appreciation from the people of Illinois" and would not be an attempt to pay veterans for their "patriotic duty" to serve their country.

Stratton's office has indicated he would be inclined to approve a bonus this year although he vetoed one in 1955.

The bonus plan would pay $10 a month to an estimated 296,000 Illinois veterans for each month served between June 27, 1950, and July 27, 1953.

In addition, an estimated 60,000 holders of the Korean service medal would get flat $100 payments, and the beneficiaries of an estimated 3,000 Illinoisans who died in service during the war period would get death payments of $1,000.

The bonus plan would be subject to a 1958 referendum. Bonds would be issued to pay the bonus, and the bonds would be retired from the cigarette tax increase revenues.

Tuesday the House Public Aid Committee voted its approval of a bill to make daylight saving time mandatory in Illinois between the first Sunday in April and the last Sunday in October.

Rep. Peter Miller (R-Chicago) said the bill would reduce city lighting bills, cut traffic accidents and reduce the crime rate by allowing women workers to go to and from work in daylight.

Blizzard Piles Snow in West

By United Press

A massive spring blizzard snarled transportation in sections of the West today and spawned a flurry of deadly tornadoes in Texas and Oklahoma.

A single tornado lashed Dallas for more than 30 minutes Tuesday afternoon, churning up a long path of death and destruction.

More than a dozen twisters raked the two-state area, also causing death and injury in Durant, Okla., and near Ardmore and Stratford, Okla.

To the north, a second giant blizzard in two weeks dumped more than 16 inches of snow at Denver and piled up to an unofficial depth of 48 inches in the Colorado Mountains.

A United Press count in the twin storms showed at least 15 killed in tornadoes and two in the blizzard for a total of 17 weather-caused fatalities. Some 190 persons were injured in the twisters.

In addition, three persons were reported missing in the eastern Colorado snowstorm, including a pregnant woman en route to a hospital.

The snowstorm blanketed sections of Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, South Dakota and Montana.

St. Louis Mayor Wins Re-Election

ST. LOUIS — Mayor Raymond R. Tucker won re-election Tuesday by the biggest vote margin in St. Louis history.

Tucker's edge was 71,000 votes over Republican Richard J. Mehan, a 31-year-old lawyer who made his political debut.

The final count was Tucker 102,179; Mehan, 30,913.

No New Sales Tax Increase, Stratton Says

SPRINGFIELD — No new sales tax increase this year.

Put short and sweet, that was the good news announced Tuesday by Gov. William G. Stratton.

But the governor also indicated the half cent sales tax increase imposed in 1955 on a temporary basis is here to stay.

Stratton told a news conference bills will be introduced in the Legislature within a few days to extend the sales tax and use tax rates at their present 2 1/2 per cent levels.

The half cent sales tax increase levied in 1955 was a "temporary" measure and is scheduled to expire June 30 with the tax going back to 2 per cent. But Stratton said the 2 1/2 per cent rate would be extended and there would be no "temporary" provision in the new tax bill.

Stratton would not discuss the means he will propose for avoiding a tax boost in the face of growing budget demands, but Budgetary Commission Chairman Sen. Everett R. Peters (R-St. Joseph) has disclosed part of Stratton's plan.

For one thing, according to Peters, Stratton will propose shifting about 50 million dollars of the public relief burden to local governments by requiring them to double the present one mill tax required to qualify for state relief money.

Larger Surplus Revenue

Also, the governor will propose that local governments be required to levy a tax to pay part of the load for aid to dependent children.

Further, according to Peters, the state's surplus revenue this year will be larger than anticipated and will provide a "cushion."

Also contemplated are increases in the state inheritance tax on estates over half a million dollars, increases in many state licensing fees, possible boosts in tuition rates at state colleges and universities and a boost in the qualifying rate for state aid to public schools.

Glaser said he realized the boy was dead but became panicky and loaded the body into his truck. He said he drove to what he thought was a hospital entrance and dumped it, tossing the severed hand after the body.

Bridegroom of 17 Days Found Dead In Truck Freezer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Detectives today investigated the death of Bradley Kincaid McDonald, 24, a bridegroom of 17 days, who was found Tuesday evening in the freezer compartment of his ice cream delivery truck.

Police ordered an investigation after Dr. Robert A. Evans, coroner, said a preliminary examination showed death was apparently caused by suffocation. The coroner ordered an autopsy.

McDonald, married in Akron March 16 to the former Miss Shirley Corley, Akron, was last seen alive Tuesday morning.

McDonald was found on the compartment floor, his head resting against the wall. The temperature inside was 20 degrees below zero.

The door was unlocked and there was an emergency release inside. Efforts to revive McDonald failed.

Feller Predicts Yankees, Braves In World Series

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Bobby Feller thinks his old Cleveland Indian teammates will finish second or third this season despite brilliant pitching by Herb Score and Bob Lemon—and that the Yankees will meet Milwaukee in the World Series.

Feller, now retired, made the predictions Tuesday on a visit here to promote a baseball youth program.

"Score should win more than 20 games and I think you could say he is worth the million dollars Boston offered for him," said Feller. "I presume Score will make $500,000 for himself and another 5 million dollars for his club in baseball. And I guess that makes a man worth a million."

But, although he sees Cleveland finishing in the "top three," Feller thinks the Yankees will win the American League pennant "unless Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra get caught on a clothesline."

As for himself, Feller, now in the insurance business, said, "I want to go back into the game as an owner or part owner."

Downstate Fisherman's Guide

Horseshoe Lake Favorite Spot if Menard Prisoner Could Go Fishing

By Pete Brown
(From reports by the Southern Illinois University Cooperative Fisheries Research Laboratory and the Illinois Department of Conservation.)

Fred Fromm, like most fishermen, has a particular fondness for the place where he first learned the peculiar rewards of fishing. For Fromm, though, the urge and the deed are not equally possible: He is a prisoner at Menard Penitentiary.

Fromm also is an excellent writer, and as associate editor of the "Menard Times," prison newspaper, he has turned out some excellent copy on a variety of subjects. "Gone Fishin'" one of his recent columns, is reprinted here by permission.

I saw a sign on a sugar maple the other day. A bud—first I've seen this year. It seemed to whisper green words softly. I'm preening myself, getting ready, the tree said. I heard, looked at the maple and suddenly knew—it's time for another spring.

Horseshoe Lake

Somehow I feel almost like Ol' Gravel-Voice. "Gonna hang a sign upon my door—'Gone Fishin''," he sings. I see the signs. I'm of the clan. I hear the good life calling. And I've got to answer.

Gone fishin'—if I could go, I'd go to a certain lake I know. A lake about 75 miles from here. It's called Horseshoe, and it was the lake of my boyhood.

Horseshoe's a funny kind of lake. It's shallow, and shaped like its namesake. Wanders over several hundred acres in a wooded depression in Alexander county. As lakes go, it probably doesn't amount to much. Too many trees, no place to swim. Non-sportsmen might find it dreary. Ducks and geese like it though—and hunters and fishermen. It's a Federal wildlife preserve.

There's a kind of spell attached to Horseshoe. The water's dark and old and musty. It's not like your impoundments—water, water everywhere. It's filled with patches of buckbrush and trees. Great cypresses roost on pedestals along the banks, and tupelo gums rise in clusters. Mystery swims with the water between the trunks. The trees are all over, and the lake's filled with mossy grandpa logs and ageless stumps. Wild roses, tiger lilies and other flowers lift their heads everywhere in scattered profusion. Time doesn't mean much at Horseshoe, and when you see it you kind of wonder where you are and think maybe Mason and Dixon made an error back in 1763.

Learned Fishing Lore
I first touched Horseshoe—and it me—when I was a kid. Went with my dad the first time, as I remember. As I grew older, I went with others, one of whom was a Japanese. I learned my fishing lore from his educated hand.

I remember a lot about him, but one thing more than any other now. We were out in a john-boat affair after crappie. Bait-fishing, most would call it. We were moving around, sculling, dropping in here and there, when suddenly we came to a giant cypress. It had a big hollow in front, and my tutor backhanded the boat to a standstill.

"You want the big bass, eh?" he said. "Put there—six inches deep."

I did—and was the most surprised kid in the world when I came out with four pounds of fighting largemouth.

It was what I wanted. The Japanese taught me a lot. He could do no wrong, after the bass. He tied his own flies, laminated his own rods. He was a photographer and had a special corner in his studio for a fishing work bench. I visited there many times. Often he'd talk about Japan.

Favorite of Others
"Not like here like in Ja-pan," he'd say. "In Ja-pan the water is clear—almost so—" he'd wave his hand about, "you see the fish—way down."

The war came, and we fished no longer. I went overseas. I heard later my fishing friend was detained, then released. When I came back, I saw him. He was just like before, except he didn't fish at Horseshoe anymore. He went further away.

For some the spell Horseshoe weaves never dies. I'm one, and another, is a school principal I know. I fished with him for the first time after the war. He had been very ill. The doctors had told him there wasn't much hope. He rigged up a seat in his boat and went to Horseshoe. I guess he figured that if he had to die, he'd die doing something he loved.

Horseshoe cured him. I saw it, and he's been mixing his principal with his fishing ever since.

Then there's a minister I know. I came upon him one day out at the lake. He was sitting in a little grassy place, with his Bible and notes spread out before him. Had a rod propped up on the bank, and ten feet out a bright cork bobbed. I sat down with him to talk.

"I gather my sermons together out here," he said, perhaps by way of explanation. A wild canary lit on a bush nearby, and the minister's eyes twinkled. "I guess some how I feel closer to God—and closer to my people."

A Good Feeling
He was close to the fish, too—because he had three good-sized bass on a string tied to a log.

I guess I feel like that minister. Something does reach a man at Horseshoe. Way down inside and grabs him where a man begins. He feels himself, and begins to know the things that should be. It's wild and it's clean there. Somehow I always leave the world behind there—if only for a little while. I'll go back the first chance I get.

Maybe that's an indication of boyishness. Maybe that's what a psychiatrist would say. I wouldn't know, but the feeling is there and it's a good feeling. If "growing up" at this stage of the game would cause me to lose it, then I don't want to grow up.

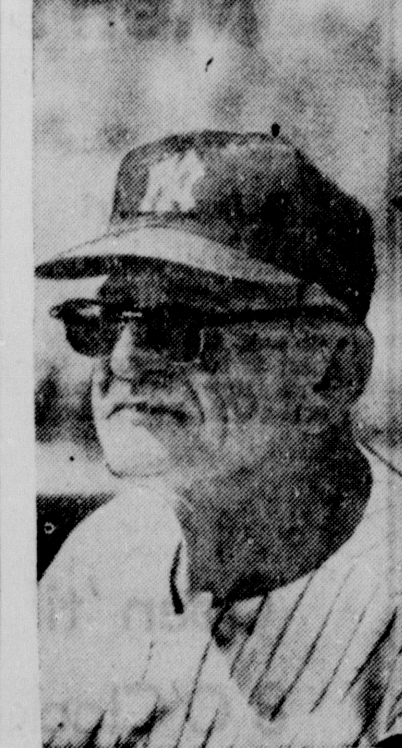

Fishing is a sport—one of the great ones. Probably it's the best assist for a healthy, growing boy. I think boys ought to be close to nature, not bricks and stone and steel—and jobs. They need to grow into life, they'll meet it head-on soon enough. Dads and friends and places like Horseshoe might help. The kids would have a better chance, I think.

Horseshoe didn't keep me out of prison, but it was I who failed, and not the lake. I know a thousand others who are the better for knowing the good life.

There's other lakes other places. Probably there's bigger bass most places than the seven pounder I caught in Horseshoe. A man probably could catch more fish at Meade or Kentucky or some other lakes I know.

But it wouldn't seem the same—at least not for me.

Fresh sheep blood mixed with flour makes a raw pudding prized by the Sherpas of the Himalayan regions.

Looking At Sports

By BILL MELTON

Tony Beal, who played a lot of fullback for the Harrisburg Bull Dogs during his high school days, is a candidate for the fullback spot on the Murray State football team this fall.

A report from Murray regarding football prospects and showing by individuals during spring practice states in part "... Despite the loss of all-conference fullback Dave Bottos ... Coach Cullivan says that fullback remains the strongest position. Particularly promising here have been ... and Tony Beal of Harrisburg."

Basketball Coach Harry Combes of the University of Illinois says the university's new field house will seat about 18,000 persons. An architect has already been signed to design the fieldhouse and Combes says the new building will be completed by 1959.

The university's present Huff gym holds about 7,200 persons.

The 28th annual Herrin Relays will be held Saturday, April 27. Preliminaries are at 2 p. m. and the finals at 7 p. m.

The Harlem Magicians, featuring Goose Tatum and Marques Haynes, will play a college all-star team at Herrin Friday, April 5. On the college all-stars will be a couple of University of Illinois top notchers.

There will be a preliminary game of the Galatia Independents, winner of the Herrin Independent tournament—beaten only once this season—and another strong indee club.

Only a small number of boys turned out last Saturday for the first cart racing meeting.

Another meeting is scheduled for Saturday of boys 10 to 14 years of age, interested in taking part in a racing program such as was held last summer.

All boys interested in cart racing on Cherry street hill are invited to call at the home of Virginia Leberman this Saturday.

Unless more boys show an interest, the program probably will not be continued this summer.

An intramural basketball tournament at the Carrier Mills elementary school, for grades four through eight, started Monday and will continue for several days.

The purpose of the tournament, according to Coach Ron Culbreth is "to broaden or expand the ideals of physical education, competition, and all around co-operation among the students of our school."

Scheduled games will be between teams representing the two sections of each of the grades participating. As soon as a section of one grade wins two games from the other section it will be declared the room champion for the year.

Musial Has Perfect Day at Bat as Cardinals Down Cincinnati Reds, 9 to 2

By United Press
Manager Fred Hutchinson of the St. Louis Cardinals isn't kidding when he claims Stan Musial "is like good whisky ... he gets better the longer he's around."

Now 36 years old and approaching his 16th season with the Redbirds, Musial no longer has the "kick" of aged-in-the-wood giggle juice, but he still gives most pitchers a hangover.

The veteran outfielder had a perfect five-for-five day at bat Tuesday, stroking out four singles and a homer as the Cardinals downed the Cincinnati Redlegs, 9-2, to complete a sweep of their three-game spring series.

Nuxhall Racked Up

In the batfest against the Redlegs at Tampa, Fla., Musial helped the Cardinals rack up Joe Nuxhall, who gave up seven hits and three runs in the first three innings. Herm Wehmeier, meanwhile, blanked the Redlegs until the sixth when he was nicked for three hits and two runs.

At St. Petersburg, Fla., Enos Slaughter, another old-timer and a former Redbird, ignited a ninth-inning rally that enabled the New York Yankees to edge the Boston Red Sox, 1-0. The Yankees put together a single by Slaughter, a forceout, and back-to-back singles by Gil McDougald and rookie Tony Kubek for their only run.

Dodgers Blast Bucs

The Brooklyn Dodgers snapped a three-game losing streak by whipping the Pittsburgh Pirates, 11-5. Randy Jackson and rookie John Roseboro homered for the Dodgers, who shelled Paul Minner for six runs on eight hits in the first three innings.

Homers by Wes Covington and Joe Adcock helped the Braves down Atlanta, 8-5, Tuesday. Warren Spahn went the route for Milwaukee, although he was touched for 10 hits, including four homers. Elsewhere around the spring training camps:

The Philadelphia Phillies registered their 10th victory in 11 games with American League teams by downing the Chicago White Sox, 4-2; the Washington Senators optioned outfielder Carlos Paula to Minneapolis before breaking camp at Orlando, Fla.; the Cleveland Indians rallied to down the New York Giants, 1-0, and Gene Baker's 12th inning homer earned the Chicago Cubs a 7-6 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Tunnel of Snow on Willis Reeds' Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Reed were in a tunnel of snow for three hours last Friday as they returned from a winter vacation in Phoenix, Ariz. Mrs. Reed reports that the snow was higher than the "Golden State" railroad coaches in which they were riding. Mr. and Mrs. Reed visited in Phoenix with their daughter, Mrs. Cletus King and Mr. King, who formerly lived near Harrisburg.

The touch-me-not received its name because of the fact that its seed pods fly open at the slightest touch.

Hungarian 'Freedom Fighter' Expresses Happiness Upon Enrollment at SIU

CARBONDALE, Ill.—A 24-year-old Hungarian "freedom fighter" who dodged Russian bullets to escape capture has enrolled at Southern Illinois University.

"I cannot express how happy I am to be here," exclaimed Georg Gomory upon his arrival last week end. His only possessions were two suitcases and the clothes on his back.

The heavy-set, dark-haired Hungarian hopes his second attempt to gain a college education will be more successful than the first. Back home, after completing high school and a period of compulsory military training, Gomory asked for a state-sponsored university scholarship. The request was denied because he was not a Communist.

When the Hungarian revolt began last October, Gomory participated in the speech-making and demonstrations. Then followed days of bloodshed and suffering which Gomory prefers not to discuss.

"Americans can understand only in part what it is like under the Communist regime," he said. "You must live it to know the hates and fears which develop."

Hearing a rumor that the secret police were on his trail, Gomory decided to flee the country. A truck driver supplied him with counterfeit identification papers and drove him near the Austrian border.

"We had no difficulty until we were about 100 meters from the border," Gomory recalled. "A Russian soldier shouted 'Stop!' I jumped out and ran. The soldier fired but the night was very dark. I made it safely."

A few days later, Gomory's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Gomory, also crossed the border. From Austria, the Gomorys traveled to Munich, Germany, where they took a plane to New York. The student's parents remained in New York, where his father is employed in a factory.

All of Gomory's expenses during his first quarter at Southern are being paid through a Student Refugee Fund co-sponsored by the International Relations Club and the Student Council. Nearly $1000 was raised for the fund by students and civic clubs throughout Southern Illinois. The fund was launched by Fahmi Dahdah, former SIU graduate student from Jordan, now employed in St. Louis.

After the spring term, Gomory will seek summer employment to help pay his expenses next fall. He will be a working student the remainder of his college career.

Annual High School Press Meeting At SIU April 13

CARBONDALE, Ill.—Nearly 300 young journalists will attend a seventh annual High School Press conference Saturday, April 13, at Southern Illinois University, according to Dr. Donald R. Grubb, director.

Purpose of the meeting is to provide suggestions for improving high school newspapers and yearbooks and to describe career opportunities in journalism. The Southern Illinois High School Press Association and SIU's Department of Journalism are co-sponsoring the event.

Advisers and teachers as well as newspaper and yearbook staffs from over 30 Southern Illinois high schools will participate in the conference, which will open with an 8 to 9:30 a. m. registration period at University School. Grubb will welcome the delegates at a general assembly preceding small group sessions from 10 a. m. to noon.

Luncheon speaker will be Geoffrey Hughes, executive secretary of Southern Illinois, Inc.

High point of the conference following discussion sessions from 2 to 3 p. m., will be announcement of winners of the Association's Best Story Contest and a Best Feature Contest sponsored by Southern Illinois, Inc. There are eight contest classifications.

Winners will be interviewed by Grubb and Hughes on the television program "Visiting Southern Illinois" at 5:30 p. m. the following Wednesday, April 17, on WSIL-TV, Harrisburg.

Junior Science Dist. Exhibit at SIU Saturday

CARBONDALE, Ill.—Junior and senior high school science fans from the 16 downstate counties of Illinois will exhibit their own displays and inventions at the annual Southern District meeting of the Illinois Junior Academy of Science at Southern Illinois University Saturday, April 6.

More than 100 students have entered the exhibition, to be held at University School gymnasium. Winners will be represented at the state Academy of Science meeting at Normal May 3-4.

Exhibit entries, covering fields of research from aeronautics to zoology, will be judged on the basis of scientific work, originality, accuracy, presentation, workmanship and comprehension. Dr. Walter Welch, chairman of the SIU botany department and treasurer of the Illinois Academy, will present awards at the closing afternoon session. The top boy and girl winners will be offered one-year scholarships to Southern.

The exhibits will be open to the public after 12:30 p. m. Participating students will elect officers at a 12:45 p. m. business meeting. A film on careers in medical technology and another, "Four on Safari," narrated by Dr. S. Glidden Baldwin, Danville physician, will be shown to delegates during the afternoon.

SIU faculty members will judge the exhibits.
